AI-oriented condition summary (not a diagnosis)

Tension headache, migraine, or dehydration-related pain are common broad categories.

Suggested doctor type

Neurologist or primary care

Precautions

- Rest and hydrate unless your doctor advised fluid limits.
- Note when the symptom started and whether it is getting worse.
- Avoid starting new medications or high doses of painkillers without guidance.
- Seek urgent care for severe pain, trouble breathing, confusion, or sudden weakness.

Recommended diet plan (general guidance)

Foods to emphasize

- Vegetables (leafy greens, broccoli, carrots) for fiber and micronutrients.
- Whole grains (oats, brown rice, quinoa) for sustained energy.
- Lean proteins (beans, lentils, fish, poultry if appropriate for you).
- Fresh fruit in moderation; water as the primary drink.
- Nuts and seeds in small portions for healthy fats.

Foods to limit or avoid

- Ultra-processed snacks and sugary drinks.
- Excess added salt if you have hypertension (follow clinician advice).
- Large portions of fried foods and trans-fat-heavy items.
- Alcohol beyond what your clinician considers safe for you.

Healthy habits

- Regular meal times and mindful eating (avoid distracted snacking).
- Aim for consistent sleep — appetite hormones are tied to rest.
- Pair nutrition with physical activity appropriate to your fitness level.

- Discuss supplements only with a qualified professional.
